

Best Resident's

Presentation

Award 2022

ECBHM

Thirty-four scientific communications of ECBHM residents presented at the World Buiatrics Congress in Madrid competed for this year's ECBHM Best Resident's Communication Awards.

The ECBHM-awards for best scientific communications from our residents, at the WBC2022 in Madrid are as follows:

- Best oral communication: Thibaut Lurier, Université de Lyon, INRAE, VetAgro Sup, France: "Interpretation of the results of Q fever ELISA tests in domestic ruminants: a user-friendly Shiny application based on latent class models in a Bayesian framework"
- 2nd best oral communication: Joana Jacinto, Department of Veterinary Medical Sciences, University of Bologna, Italy: "Novel insights into the genetics of schistosoma reflexum in Holstein cattle".
- Best poster: Hélène Casalta, Clinical Department of Production animals, Faculty of Veterinary Medicine, University of Liège, Belgium: "Pilot study on caudal vena cava size by fast ultrasonography through different views in healthy calves".

Congratulations to the winners!! They will receive a prize of €1000 to be spent on useful activities for their residency.